GERMANY TO CONSIDER DISCUSSION OF PEACE

gium be fully compensated for her losses. This information was conferred to Secretary Bryan by the British ambassador.

Thursday, September 10.—The French ambassador called on Secretary Bryan, and it is understood, discussed the French point of view. Ambassador Herriek coincidentally reported the earnest wish of France, that there might be peace, but pointed out that until the French had driven the invaders from their territory and Belgium had been compensated terms of peace could not be negotiated. During the afternoon, Ambassador Pages report of his conversation with Sir Edward Grey also reached the white house. Great Britain, according to Ambassador Pages, was determined to make no peace until German militarism had been crushed because of its danger to the world's civilization. On the same day came personal messages from Emperor William and President Poincare, of France, concerning the use of dum-dum bullets.

Friday, September 11.—President Wilson and Secretary Bryan conferred on the general situation and it is understood determined to await the reply of the German emperor to the inquiry sent on the previous Monday, before acknowledging the two personal messages from Emperor William and President Poincare. Should the emperors reply be favorable, the president may take advantage of the messages addressed to him to express a hope that atrocities complained of may be ended through the making of peace.

Among diplomats friendly to the allies, the view was expressed tonight that while the efforts to make peace seemingly had failed, a sudden turn of events might change the situation. It was pointed out that if the German retreat continued so that it were forced to the borders of France, and if Austria's reverses were prolonged, President Wilson's personal influence in Great Britain and France might be brought to bear to obtain a definite statement of peace terms.

disorder, the French armies further to the east have been strongly engaged with the German center, which had pushed forward as far as Vitry-Le-Francois. Between September 8 and 10, our allies were unable to make much impression west of Vitry. On the 11th, however, this portion of the German army began to give way, and eventually abandoned Vitry-Le-Francois.

"Between the Upper Merne and the Meuse, the French troops are following up the enemy and driving a portion of his forces northward toward the Argonne forest country. It is today that it has captured the entire artillery of a hostile army corps, 5 about 150 guns. The enemy, thus in retreat along the whole line west of the Meuse, has suffered gravely in morale, besides encountering heavy losses in personnel and material."

"OFF THE WATER WAGON"

A Real one As It Happened—Result of a Collision.
Atlanta, Sept. 11.—Because he fell off the water wagon, Miles Stone has filed suit for $15,000 against C. P. Gore. It was a real water-wagon Malone fell from, and he was driving for the city when Gore is said to have run into the vehicle with an automobile, hurling Malone to the asphalt which he was engaged in sprinkling.
